

The Columbian.

VOL 27.

BLOOMSBURG, PA., FRIDAY, JULY 8, 1892.

NO. 28

A $10,000 fire was occasioned by fire crackers at Mt. Carmel on the 4th.

During the month of June there were fourteen arrests in Bloomsburg. Mostly for drunkenness.

Rev. J. F. Dunlap of Danville, will preach in the Evangelical church next Sabbath afternoon at 3 o'clock.

The dining room at the Central Hotel was handsomely decorated on the 4th.

Hon. S. P. Wolverton was renominated for Congress by the Democratic convention in Northumberland county last week.

E. E. Cameron, who recently purchased the bottling business of Peter Gross' estate, has taken possession, and is now conducting the business.

The Rev. G. B. Smith of Lehigh Co. will preach in the Reformed church of Bloomsburg on next Sunday morning and evening, July 10th.

William Gunther, employed by G. A. Herring as a butcher, severely injured his right eye on Tuesday morning, by running against a meat hook.

The Bloomsburg Band will have a picnic at Lakeside Park, East Mahanoy on the 14th. For only $1.00 for the round trip.

Prothonotary Weigand and Register and Recorder Weaver of Luzerne county went up the creek on Wednesday to try their luck at trout fishing.

There was a large fire at Mt. Carmel early Tuesday morning. A row of ten houses was destroyed. The fire originated from the careless use of fire-crackers.

Alexander Black of Centralia was found dead on Tuesday morning near the Catholic cemetery. He was a brother of D. C. Black Esq. Heart failure was the cause of death.

A party of about thirty Bloomsburg people spent Sunday and the Fourth at Proctor Inn, Jamison City. Some beautiful fire works were set off at night on the mountain opposite the hotel.

The Bloomsburg Base Ball team was taken to Danville Thursday by a four-in-hand team of Girton and Hilday. These gentlemen have some very fine rigs at their livery stables, corner of Third and Leonard streets.

W. H. Snyder Esq., Robert Buckingham Esq., John B. Casey, County Treasurer Kline, Register and Recorder Campbell and Prothonotary Quick went to Benscoter's Pond on Tuesday to fish for a couple of days.

A correspondent of the Benton Argus says that Mr. Hannon, station agent of the B. & S. at Jamison City has seen a large black bear on two occasions between that place and Centralia.

In the absence of the President of Town Council William Kramer is acting President. He is the vice President of the council. He held a hearing on Wednesday morning and fined two men $5 and cost for drunkenness and abusing a horse they were driving.

The Bloomsburg Furniture Company is fast building up a wide reputation. Orders are coming in from almost every state. They have recently booked an order for five hundred fine bedroom suits of oak. Their chiffoiers and side boards on which they have had a big run, are fine specimens of their excellent work.

The Legislative candidates now in the field are Gen. C. M. Blaker, R. G. F. Kshinkay, A. L. Fritz and Guy Jacoby from the north side, and E. M. Tewksbury from the south side. G. W. Sterner's card of withdrawal appears in this issue. Mr. Tewksbury has no opposition thus far, and probably will not have any.

Considerable excitement was caused on Tuesday by the report that a man had been killed in a fight on Railroad street. As near as the facts can be ascertained a man from Catawissa, under the influence of liquor insulted a woman, and several young men threw stones at him, and one striking him knocked him down. He recovered soon and was taken home.

Whatever musical talent there is in the country, the public schools have done much and will do still more to develop it. The American people are now in condition to cultivate literary tastes and the drudgery of labor decreased annually, are all in favor of the cultivation of music, and therefore the love of music is growing upon us strongly.

NORMAL SCHOOL.

ECHOES OF COMMENCEMENT WEEK.

Some of the Alumni who were present at the Commencement.

Miss Bessie Smith ('91) having taught a successful term at Mt. Carmel renewed old acquaintances at the Normal.

Miss Belle Weil ('91) attended Commencement, having taught successfully at Plymouth.

Mr. Jos. Burke, Daniel Rinehart and Jas. O. Herman ('90) were with us and received their second degree.

Miss Belle Trumble ('91) is at present enjoying the hospitality of her classmate Miss Alice Dillon.

Miss Hannah Morrison ('90) and Miss Libbie Cavanaugh ('91) two of Shenandoah's successful pedagogues, honored the Normal with their presence.

The Davis sisters ('91) each having taught a successful term at Plymouth, attended our exercises this year.

Miss Jennie Kline, Miss Maggie Moran, and Miss Carrie Smith members of the class of ('90) are honoring the school with their presence and expect to carry home with them their second degree.

Miss Mary Spratt ('91) one of Lewistown's successful instructors, is at the Normal.

Having completed her initial year in the teaching profession, Miss Frona Schrader ('91) of Johnstown, is honoring the school with a visit.

Miss Ella Custer ('90) is renewing acquaintances at the Normal and will also receive her second degree.

The Misses Ella and Adda Hagman ('90) are having their usual pleasant words for all on Normal hill. Jennie Ransom and Lulu McAlarney ('90) are here as lively as they were two years ago.

Miss Evans ('91) of west Pittston, is here fresh from her Bucks Co. school, and happy as ever.

Bridget A. Breslin ('81) of Hazleton is here to see her sister Miss Annie receive her first degree.

Fred Magrady, J. O. Herman, E. E. Reeder, D. E. Baxter and Daniel Rinehart all of '90 are here to get their second degree. It does every body good to have all these friends return and renew old acquaintances.

Miss Josephine Leysion of Kingston ('91) came Wednesday morning and will have a pleasant word for all. The noble profession evidently agrees with her.

Miss Kate Ross and Miss Annie Evans, class of '91, are among the number who have returned to share in the festivities of Commencement week.

Among those who are being entertained at the Normal, we notice the genial face of Miss Cora Hutchison, class of '91.

The Misses Hawley and Palmer ('90) are seeing old friends, and enjoying Commencement.

Mr. Wm. Kitchen ('88) and his sisters Ella ('88) and Minnie ('90) are here. Their sister Miss Annie, is a member of this year's class.

Miss Mary Stover ('90) has come from Waynesboro to attend commencement. Her long journey shows interest in her alma mater. May all these old friends return often.

ALUMNI MEETING.

The attendance at the Alumni meeting was unusually large, and the meeting was an interesting one. Supt. D. A. Harman of Hazleton was elected temporary chairman. The class of '92 was admitted to membership. Mark Creasy, the orator elected last year, made an excellent address. The essayist was absent. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, B. F. Meyers, Wana-mie; Vice President, Laura M. Keene, Hazleton; Recording Secretary, Dora Marr, Bloomsburg; Corresponding Secretary, Prof. Wilbur; Treasurer, H. G. Supplee, Bloomsburg; Executive Committee, Prof. Albert, J. S. Grimes, Mark Creasy, Morgan Evans, Cora Hutchison; Essayist, Francis S. Conner, Orator, W. A. Shaffer. Speeches were called for and responses made by Dr. D. J. Waller, Jr., Prof. J. P. Welsh, Earnest W. Young, Prof. Wilbur, Prof. Noetting, Geo. E. Elwell, Esq. A committee consisting of Geo. E. Elwell, H. G. Supplee, D. A. Harman, Prof. Welsh, Miss L. M. Keene was appointed to report next year on some plan for establishing an Alumni fund. The meeting then adjourned to the Dining Hall, where nearly 300 sat down to the Alumni dinner.

THE NEW CHAPEL.

To all old students of the Normal it is unnecessary to attempt a description of the old chapel. Its ancientness has long ago made its indelible imprint upon the minds of all students prior to 1892. In its early days it was a grand place, fully up to all requirements of the times.

But our school has grown. It has grown wonderfully; indeed, it has outgrown some of its environments and the old chapel was one of them. The spirit of progress that has of late years pervaded the hearts of the honorable Board of Trustees, could no longer endure the unsightly room with its still more unsightly furniture, and early in the Spring term just closed, they decided to remodel the room.

Plans were advertised for and those of architect Albert Kipp of Wilkes-barre were chosen.

On April 27th the contract was awarded to Mr. Long also of Wilkes-barre, requiring that the room be finished by June 15.

Mr. Long began work about May 10, and to-day we have one of the neatest and prettiest auditoriums in eastern Pennsylvania.

First in order among the improvements made was that of a splendid gallery, in the form of a horse shoe running around the entire room. This increased the seating capacity about four hundred, giving in all a present capacity of over one thousand.

That which produces the most pleasing effect in the new chapel is the elegant taste displayed by the decorations in arranging and blending the various colors in their painting.

THE DECORATIONS.

Mr. G. C. Tidden of New York city was the contractor under Mr. Long for all decorations.

He sent as the painter in charge Mr. Wm. Gallia, and all are loud in their praise for this gentleman's good taste.

The ceiling and sides are in cream and salmon pink, while the stage is set in olive green with golden brown woodwork. The doors and windows and all wood trimmings, are ivory white. The columns of support beneath the gallery have beautifully silvered tops with deep red bases.

The decorations of the central dome and of all lateral or vertical figures is that of classic laurel set in white, which with the cream sides blends very prettily.

The effect of the entire room is at once restful to the eye, and speaks loudly for the good judgment and general culture of the painter Mr. Gallia.

THE CLASS-ROOMS AT THE NORMAL.

A splendid effort was made during the past year in some of the departments, noticeably in those of Ancient and Modern Languages, and Geography, to hang the class-rooms with elegant pictures which would be at once helpful in a better understanding and comprehension of the subjects taught, and also relieve the bare and uninviting air of the average class-room.

THE MANUAL TRAINING DEPARTMENT.

This report of Commencement week, full as it is, would hardly be complete without special reference to the department of Manual Training.

Five years ago this feature of educational work was not known in our Normal Schools; it was indeed, by many, ridiculed as a fancy of certain innovators, that would never be realized.

But a marvelous change has come upon us. The spirit of progress evidenced in all industrial lines, has been diffused in educational affairs, until even now the former objectors say: "Well, it may have a little place in our public school work."

A visit to this department of our Normal School, will convince the most skeptical that Manual Training—or the training of the hand with the mind has a practical value, which for the good of our youth, should have been recognized long ago.

The splendid earnestness in which all the work is done alike, by Senior, Junior, and especially the model school classes is certainly proof that this work interests the student.

It is a positive pleasure to see these busy people work with such a fine spirit, sense of freedom and a determination to accomplish something.

The educational value of having a definite thing to be accomplished, or a particular piece of work to be finished and of keeping ones self down to that work, is recognized by all thoughtful persons, and that is just what Manual Training is doing for all our students.

The requirements to keep tools in order and in their proper places, the leaving of their work benches always clean, in short the entire work in this line is well and particularly calculated to develop certain much needed lines of character in our youth that would otherwise go undeveloped.

The appropriateness of this work for girls has been questioned by some, but the evident pleasure they take in all the work, and the great amount of voluntary work they all do in ample proof that they find delight in this work. And then if we measure by results, their work is fully as good as that of the boys, and in many points they even excel.

We have not space to go into a full outline of the various steps or grades of work here presented.

It comprises all kinds of nailing, straight, oblique, toe, blind, and horizontal at right and left hand.

Then follows a series of work in mitre, mortise, and dove-tail joints.

After this a very careful study of various woods, is taken up in which pupils are taught the uses, relative value, strength and durability of the common woods; taught what woods are useful in furniture making, building, why useful for certain things and not for others, how to tell whether dealer is giving genuine or imitation wood, and how to tell the common forest trees by wood, bark, leaf or fruit.

Thus their work is carefully graded, and measuring the adaptability of the subject by results alone, all are convinced that it is an indispensable factor in a complete education.

During the year the Seniors made a great deal of apparatus for their own use in their teaching.

Among these there was a very carefully made meter stick, of cherry wood ends bound in brass, on one side the Metric scales, on the other English scale was very neatly marked.

A splendidly made flower press for use in Botany work, in which the great majority of the Seniors have a deep interest. The presses are made of cherry or maple, and are very valuable pieces of apparatus. In addition to these some made sets of blocks illustrating cube root, finding area of a rectangle, parallelogram, triangle.

THE LARGEST AUDIENCE EVER GATHERED ON NORMAL HILL.

Although the new auditorium has a seating capacity of five hundred more than the old one, yet every seat was taken and standing room was at a premium long before the hour had arrived for the Commencement program to begin. Fully thirteen hundred people were present and manifested the deepest interest in every number of the program.

Amiration for the beautiful new chapel with its comfortable seats, and its much improved acoustic properties, was at its height. Comments from former graduates, friends of the school, and even from strangers, were heard on every side at the wonderful growth of the school.

The alumni meeting which followed the Commencement exercises, was the most enjoyable one ever held. The speeches were many and of the most loyal sort. Special reference is made elsewhere to certain actions taken by the Alumni Association.

The banquet followed the Alumni meeting, and fully three hundred sat down to a feast of good things. Yes, good things for the physical man, for the social, and the varied "toasts" that followed were indeed, well calculated to do good mentally, to any who would but take with him the happy suggestions and wise counselings that were given.

This was indeed a glad Commencement week. The faculty was glad because every part of the week's program was gone through without a single mishap or failure, the students were glad because of the hundreds of people who came from near and far to see our school and hear the various entertainments; the returning Alumni were glad because of the permanent growth of the school as evidenced on every hand.

Thus closed the 23rd Annual Commencement of our Normal School. The wishes and desires of all her faithful children are that she may go on from present successes to greater and still greater, and win for herself a name of which she may be justly proud in years to come.

A Little Too Out.

Two young men from Danville drove to Bloomsburg on Tuesday night to paint the town red, and have some fun with our police force. They were disorderly and noisy, and were hunting for a policeman. It was about midnight, and as everything had become quiet before their arrival, officers Chronis and Thomas had gone home. They seemed so anxious for a policeman however, that word was sent out to Constable Woodward who got out of bed to accommodate them.

He found them creating a disturbance and arrested them both and locked them up in the cooler over night. Next time these young men want to have some fun with the Bloomsburg policeman they should send word in advance that they are coming and the whole force will be on hand to be entertained by them.

The cleaning up of the loose stone on Market street which was done this week by Street Commissioner Huosel is a great improvement to the street.

INDEPENDENCE DAY.

A BIG TIME IN BLOOMSBURG.

THOUSANDS OF VISITORS THROUG THE STREETS—A FINE PARADE.

The Fourth of July, 1892 will long be remembered in Bloomsburg. It is sixteen years since the day has been observed by any public demonstration. Once in that time, Grand Army Day, has the town been gaily decorated, but never more profusely than on Monday. An arch representing granite and marble, decorated with flags, portraits, eagles, banners &c. spanned the intersection of Market and Main streets, erected by the P. O. S. of A. Another one was erected by the Knights of the Golden Eagle across Main at Odd Fellows Hall. It was covered with the colors of the order, black, orange and blue, and the pillars were surmounted by large century plants. Two figures, one a high priest and the other a Knight of old stood on brackets on each pillar. An eagle surmounted the centre, and across the arch were the words "Welcome Sir Knights. Both were greatly admired. Evergreen arches were sprung across the street at Main and Iron, and at Main and West. With the arrival of the first morning trains the crowd began to come, and by noon the town was a lively scene. The arrival of the visiting bands kept up the excitement during the morning and the booming of big fire crackers everywhere made the day smack of an old-time Fourth. All the places of business and residences along the line of march were handsomely decorated with the national colors.

At 1:30 the Court House bell rang, and the different bodies assembled at Market Square to form for the parade. Col. A. D. Seely of Berwick, Chief Marshal, performed his duties admirably, and the procession was quickly formed in proper military style. The assistant marshals were C. P. Sloan, C. B. Ent, T. M. Dawson, D. R. Coffman, T. C. Fisher, H. M. Grotz. The procession was formed as follows:

Berwick Band,
G. A. R. of Berwick,
Ent Post G. A. R.
Drum Corps.
Milton Commandery, P. O. S. A.
Knights of the Golden Eagle,
Catawissa Band.
P. O. S. A. of Catawissa,
Lightstreet Band,
Espy P. O. S. A.,
Wapwallopen Band,
P. O. S. A. Wapwallopen,
Shickshinny Band,
Shickshinny P. O. S. A.
Lime Ridge Drum Corps,
P. O. S. A. Lime Ridge,
Gilmore's Band,
Bloomsburg, P. O. S. A.
Washingtonville Camp,
Bloomsburg Band,
O. U. A. M. Bloomsburg,
Citizens Drum Corps,
Junior American Mechanics,
Rescue Hook & Ladder Co.,

The weather was all that could have been wished for, and the streets were not dusty, so that the march though long, was comparatively an easy one. After the march, the crowd gathered at the speaker's stand on Market square, and listened to eloquent addresses by Fred Ikeler, Esq., of Bloomsburg, and Walter Shipman, Esq., of Sunbury.

Prizes were awarded as follows: For the best drilled commandery twenty-five dollars, to Milton; second best to Wapwallopen, prize being a parade flag; for the largest number of men in line the prize, which was an officer's chair, went to the Camp at Catawissa. The judges were Hon. E. R. Ikeler, J. C. Brown and T. E. Geddis.

Notwithstanding the great crowd, there was but little disorder, and but few drunken men were seen on the streets. Only one arrest was made.

Altogether it was a success, and those having the management of it are to be congratulated.

A SLIGHT FIRE.

About five o'clock on Monday afternoon the fire alarm was sounded, and the fire companies went tearing down Main street to Scott town hill when they found the fire was out. The roof of a house occupied by Wm. Brooking that stands up high on the bank below the Pursel property caught fire and was slightly damaged. Mr. Brooking discovered it in time and with the help of the neighbors extinguished it with buckets. The origin is unknown. There was no fire in that part of the house, and no fire crackers had been thrown there.

Blue and Heddins are serving their customers with oysters, clams, chicken, frogs, and other delicacies of the season. They keep a first class restaurant.

PERSONAL.

Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Lockard and Miss Annie are in New York this week.

D. E. Whitenight of Tamaqua is in town on business.

Hon. James Fritz of Nanticoke spent the 4th in Bloomsburg.

Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Drinker of South Bethlehem spent the 4th here.

Dr. J. B. Neal and wife are with their Bloomsburg friends again.

Dr. D. J. Waller Jr., has been elected a trustee of Lafayette College.

Miss Grace Neal expects to spend several weeks in Towanda this summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Laycock of Wilkesbarre were in town last week Friday.

Ex-Superintendent Grimes was in town several days this week. He seems to be enjoying good health.

Mr. E. Vanderbogert and wife of Locoming county spent the 4th with Dr. and Mrs. W. H. House.

Misses Helen and Mary Walters of Milton, are visiting friends and relatives in town this week.

C. E. Yorks Esq. of Central was in town on Wednesday. He is one of the leading men of that section.

J. H. Mercer and family have gone to Ohio to spend a few weeks with relatives there.

W. H. Rohrbach of Crowl, Northumberland Co. one of our old subscribers, was in town last Saturday.

Prof. G. E. Wilbur and family will spend their summer vacation visiting among friends at Drayton, N. Y.

Miss May Keene of Hazleton, visited J. W. Eyer's and other friends in town this week.

Harvey Koehler of Kingston was in town Monday and Tuesday attending to business and visiting among friends. Mr. Norman Walters, wife and daughter of Milton were visiting friends and relatives in town on the Fourth.

Prof. Wm. Neotling left for his home at Selingsgrove, Friday of last week. He will remain there during his summer vacation.

Prof. Cope and family, went to West Chester Saturday of last week, where they will sojourn among friends until the commencement of the fall term at the Normal.

R. C. Neal, A. Z. Schoch, Peter Solleder and Robert Neal went out hunting on the 4th and got three woodcock. They say the birds are scarce. They saw but five.

Dr. and Mrs. J. C. Biddle of Ashland sailed for Europe last Friday to be absent about three months. Mrs. Biddle was formerly Miss Agnes Buckingham of this town. Their many friends wish them a safe voyage.

The American Mechanics will have a picnic at Lakesid Park on August 14th.

Over seven hundred people were fed at the Lutheran Church dinner on the 4th.

Charles Girton at the St. Elmo is fast increasing the already large trade of that popular hotel. He is just the man for the place.

C. A. Klein has been making some fine improvements in his house in the way of paper and paint. P. K. Vannatta did the work, and it is nice.

LEG AMPUTATED.

On Saturday last Dr. Arment, Brown and McReynolds amputated the leg of William Wilson son of J. D. Wilson of this town. Last fall he sprained his ankle, and it gradually grew worse until the bone softened, and amputation became necessary to save the patient's life. It is a most unfortunate accident and he and his family have much sympathy from their friends.

IT WAS LOADED

Christ K. Reice, son of C. E. Reice, the butcher, met with a serious accident on the Fourth. A large fire cracker was being fired in front of Phillip's Bakery Establishment: Christ was with the crowd, and the cannon cracker, was slow in igniting. He, supposing the fire was out, picked up the cracker, the explosion occurred, a scream rent the air while blood flowed freely from the lacerated hand. An examination showed that the thumb was broken while the fingers were almost torn from the hand. Drs. Arment and Brown were immediately called, sewed up the torn flesh and dressed the broken finger. At this writing he is suffering very much with pain.

INDEPENDENCE DAY AT TAMMANY HALL.

Monday July 4th was a red letter day for the democracy of New York City. They gathered at the large Wigwam to celebrate Independence Day, and ratify the nominations made at Chicago. Shortly after ten o'clock a man rose in the gallery and yelled, "Three cheers for Grover Cleveland." Four thousand followers of the Wigwam had gathered there to celebrate Independence Day. They responded to the call for cheers with such enthusiasm as to interrupt the regular proceedings for fully five minutes. Never, perhaps, in the history of Tammany Hall has the mention of a favorite son's name been received with such a welcome as that aroused by the two magic words, "Grover Cleveland."

The repeated and long continued outbursts of cheers for the Democratic candidate for President astonished the politicians. Those who are prominent in the councils of Tammany Hall and were seated on the platform watched the crowd with evident astonishment. Hundreds of men with lusty throats jumped on chairs and shouted for Cleveland. As many more threw their hats into the air. It was a wonderful Cleveland demonstration—and it occurred in Tammany Hall.

The celebration itself was one of the most successful ever held by Tammany Hall on the natal day. Under the constitution of the society, every recurrence of the Fourth of July must be celebrated in the Wigwam by the reading of the immortal Declaration and the delivery of patriotic speeches.

The large assembly room was handsomely decorated. Light blue velvet, embroidered with gold stars, was festooned around the platform, gallery and boxes. The escutcheons of the various States hung on staffs along the gallery front, and the Star-Spangled Banner was the only flag to be seen. In the centre of the platform was a bank of roses. On each side was an immense floral horseshoe. One of these bore the inscription "1776," the year of Tammany Society's founding. The other was florally inscribed with the date "1892," the 116th year of American freedom.

There was not even standing space in the assembly room at 10 o'clock. Every seat on the floor and in the gallery and boxes had been occupied long before the hour set for the beginning of the programme. Bayne's Sixty-ninth Regiment Band played popular and patriotic music, while the crowd awaited the appearance of the Sachems, the officers of the society and the orators.

As soon as the procession arrived at the doors of the big hall the crowd set up a shout and the band played a grand march. Reaching the platform, distinguished visitors were given front seats and Grand Sachem Gilroy took possession of the Chairman's table.

Senator Daniel, of Virginia, and Congressman Wilson, of West Virginia, Permanent Chairman of the Chicago Convention, were to deliver "long talks," neither was able to do so. Senator Daniel did not come to New York. Congressman Wilson arrived Sunday evening but was taken ill at the Hoffman House.

Letters were read from distinguished members of the party who had been invited but were unable to attend the celebration. Secretary McGoldrick began reading the first letter. "Gray Gables," he said, but he had scarcely sounded the last syllable when a mighty cheer went up. He was compelled to stop reading by the continuance of the applause. It was at this point that the man in the gallery proposed three cheers for Cleveland, and the crowd renewed its enthusiasm for the head of the national ticket. Mr. Cleveland's letter was then read as follows:

MR. CLEVELAND'S LETTER
GRAY GABLES, BUZZARD'S BAY, MASS.,
June 29, 1892.
Hon. Thomas F. Gilroy, Grand Sachem.

DEAR SIR: I acknowledge with thanks the courtesy of an invitation to attend the celebration of the one hundred and sixteenth anniversary of American independence, by the Tammany Society, on the 4th day of July next.

It will be impossible for me to take part in the interesting exercises you contemplate; but I hope the celebration will be abundantly pleasant and profitable to those who are fortunately able to participate.

I believe that Independence Day should be celebrated with zeal and enthusiasm by the old and young in every part of our land and in every condition of American life. No man, woman or child within the limits of American citizenship should forget or outgrow the sentiments related to the observance of the Fourth day of July.

Because there are influences and tendencies abroad which tend to the neglect of this anniversary the valuable and patriotic efforts of the Tammany Society to rescue it from independence ought to be universally applauded.

I notice that my invitation contains the declaration that the coming celebration by the society "is designed to be of exceptional significance and extended effect." I have no fear that the design will miscarry, for I am satisfied that the Tammany Society will not lose the opportunity the occasion affords to teach the Declaration of Independence was a movement on the part of people determined to govern themselves; that the patriotism it inspires enjoins unselfish care for our country's welfare; that political endeavor is only safe and useful when undertaken in the peoples interest, and that political organization is only effective and successful when approved and trusted by an intelligent popular judgment.

Yours very truly
GROVER CLEVELAND.

Following this Senator Hill's letter was read as follows:

UNITED STATES SENATE.
WASHINGTON, D. C. July 1, 1892.
Thomas F. Gilroy and Others,
Committee of Tammany Hall.

Engagements made prior to the receipt of your letter prevent my acceptance of the Committee's courteous invitation to be with the Tammany Society on the coming Fourth of July.

This year's celebration of the anniversary of the country's independence, preceding as it does an important political contest involving the supremacy of the essential principles of our free government, may appropriately be made the occasion of the renewal of our faith in those cherished principles which have been for so many years faithfully championed by the intrepid Democracy of Tammany Hall.

In my judgement the hope of the people lies in the success of the Democratic party. Better than any other political organization it protects their rights and represent their best interests. It has always been the defender of constitutional liberty and of the reserved rights of the State. It opposes centralization; it boldly maintains the doctrine that Federal taxation should be for public rather than private purpose; it advocates honest money—the gold and silver currency of our Constitution; favors home rule for States and municipalities; it insists upon honest and economical expenditure of public money; it opposes force bills and Federal interference in domestic affairs of States; it antagonizes monopolies; it rejects unjust sumptuary legislation; it is a friend of labor and it hates hypocrisy sham and fraud.

These tenets of our faith, thus epitomized constitute a patriotic platform, upon which every lover of his country may safely stand, and to which he may proudly declare his allegiance on this National's birthday.

In the State of New York the Democratic party intrusted last winter for the first time in many years with control of the Legislature in both its branches, nobly redeemed its promises to the people.

Our course at the present time is plain.

The Democracy of New York in the approaching struggle should present a solid front to the common enemy. Loyalty to cardinal Democratic principles and regularly nominated candidates is the supreme duty of the hour.

I remain your fellow citizen. DAVID B. HILL.

The fact that Tammany has fallen in line and will support Cleveland for President insures a democratic majority in New York. This will not be viewed with complaisance by the republicans, as they had hoped for a split in that state that would give them the electoral vote. It now looks like four years more for Grover.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

WASHINGTON, July 4, 1892.
Mr. Harrison did not enjoy his Fourth of July even a little bit. He is as mad as it is possible for a man of his glacial temperament to get. He is mad with those republican Senators who voted for the Stewart free coinage bill, but it is upon the head of Vice President Morton that the vials of his hottest wrath are being figuratively emptied. Had Mr. Morton been in his seat as presiding officer of the Senate when Senator Vest moved to postpone consideration of the free coinage bill until next December the motion would have carried, and the present dilemma escaped as the vote thereon was a tie. Mr. Morton, who is opposed to free coinage, would have had the casting of the decisive vote. Mr. Harrison is doing everything in his power to prevent the free coinage bill passing the House although it is stated that he is anxious to veto it.

Congress is not in session to-day. To-morrow the free coinage bill will be taken from the speaker's table, where it was placed Saturday when sent over from the Senate, and referred to the committee on Coinage. A meeting of that committee has been called for Wednesday by chairman Bland and, if it is attended by a quorum, the bill will probably be at once reported to the House with a recommendation that it be passed. Then the fighting will begin. The silver men will apply to the committee on Rules for a rule setting one or more days for a consideration and a time for taking a final vote; this will be opposed by the anti-silver democrats. The silver men threaten to stop all business in the House until a vote is had on the bill. The outcome will depend largely upon two things, the attendance of democrats, and the attitude of the republican members. So far as Mr. Harrison can control the republican members they will side with the anti free coinage democrats, but it is by no means certain that he can control them. One thing is certain, it will be absolutely necessary to have a voting quorum on the floor to pass the bill, as the democratic antis will not vote unless certain of victory.

Ex-Senator Farwell, of Illinois, has published a letter in a Washington paper that is causing much talk, and which shows that Mr. Farwell is no greater admirer of Mr. Harrison now than he was when he retired from the Senate to make room for a good democrat in the person of Senator Palmer. He calls attention to the fact that some three years ago he and numerous other republicans then in Congress, recommended Mr. W. J. Campbell, of Illinois, as a suitable man to be appointed collector of Customs at Chicago, and that Mr. Harrison said that Mr. Campbell was a professional lobbyist and unfit for the position, and positively refused to appoint him. Mr. Farwell wishes to know why Mr. Harrison selected a man for the responsible position of chairman of the republican national committee whom he had refused to appoint to a Federal position because of his being "a professional lobbyist."

By sticking to their guns, the House conferees on the River and Harbor bill compelled the Senate conferees to recede from the Senate amendments to which the House disagree. It is going to be just the same with a number of the appropriation bill, the members of the House being fully determined that the Senate shall not force them to accept amendment appropriating large sums of money to which they and their constituents are opposed, even if the session has to be prolonged in order to bring the senators around to correct ideas.

Senator Hill voted for the Stewart free coinage bill and says he did so because he considers it an improvement upon the present (Sherman) silver law, which it repeals if it becomes a law.

Representative Baker, of Kansas, one of the Alliance members of the House, thinks we pay our officials too much, and has introduced a bill making the President's salary twenty-five thousand dollars, Vice President five thousand dollars, members of the Cabinet six thousand, Chief Justice Supreme court seven thousand, Associate Justices six thousand five hundred, Speaker of the House five thousand, and U. S. Senators and Representatives three thousand.

Ex-boss Clarkson, is getting himself laughed at. His proclamation occupying about a column in the newspapers explaining his relation to the republican national committee and the ticket is about as silly a bit of egotism as was ever inflicted on the reading public, which knows that the only trouble with Clarkson is that in making a bargain with Mr. Harrison by which he could have remained at the head of the committee.

Friends of the administration are making it pleasant for the Secretary of State by telling every one that the appointment was only given him as a temporary make-shift, because of his knowledge of the details of matters now before that department. The fact is that none of the really big men in the republican party cared to accept a position which they knew would have to be given up the Fourth of next March.

BLOODSHED FOLLOWS THE STRIKE.

BATTLE BETWEEN PINKERTON DETECTIVES AND THE STRIKERS.

On Wednesday, Pittsburg had another experience with labor riots. This time, as during the fearful scenes which were witnessed during the railroad riots of 1877, blood has been shed, life jeopardized and valuable property placed in danger. This time there was no destruction of property, but the mob was thoroughly organized, well disciplined and had efficient officers at the head to conduct the operations.

The warfare, waged from four o'clock in the morning until five o'clock in the afternoon, and only ceased when the force of Pinkertons brought to the place to suppress the strike, unconditionally surrendered, leaving their arms in the barge in which they had been transported to the works.

BIG REDUCTION IN WAGES.

The riot was the culmination of troubles which have been brewing at Homestead for the past month. The Carnegie company submitted a scale to govern their workmen in the steel plants and announced that it was their ultimatum. The scale made a sweeping reduction in wages of skilled men and it was officially announced that unless the terms were complied with before July 1, the places of the workmen would be filled by others.

This was followed by a peremptory refusal on the part of the company to recognize the Amalgamated association of steel and iron workers as such, or to confer with any committee of workmen short of an acceptance of the terms offered. The men stated that they would never submit to the proposed reduction, and announced their determination to resist any effort on the part of the Carnegies to start up their plants with non-union men. The contest was precipitated by by hanging H. C. Frick, president of the company in effigy, and in retaliation the company ordered an immediate shut down of the big works two days before the time provided by the contract, under which the men were working. The employees at once proceeded to organize for the defensive and the company erected a high-board fence around the entire works, giving them the appearance of an immense stockade, the sides being pierced with port holes.

The Carnegie Company had ordered out the Pinkerton detectives to aid them in keeping the non-union men at work. The detectives had been in rendezvous some five or six miles below the city on the Ohio river, where two model barges had been prepared for them.

The barges were of the best build, and were used in shipping iron rails down the river from the Carnegie mills at Braddock. The holds were filled up with bunks, cooking arrangements and other accommodations, and as an extra precaution, as if in preparation for the siege to which they were subjected, were lined with heavy steel plates on the inside while the whole back deck was protected in similar manner. It was the intention that the men should reach the works about three o'clock in the morning, but the guards which were on duty along the river got word of the threatened invasion of the hated Pinkerton men and prepared to receive them.

The barges were towed up the river by a towboat, but long before the Pinkerton men reached Homestead thousands of strikers had gathered on the banks of the river ready to give them a hearty welcome. When the boats attempted to land, the workmen broke through the fence surrounding the mill, and entrenching themselves behind piles of steel billets, prepared to resist the landing of the detectives.

A FIERCE BATTLE PRECIPITATED.

By four o'clock in the morning an effort was made to land the detectives, but the strikers met them and a fierce battle was precipitated, both sides exchanging a heavy volley of shots. The detectives were all armed with Winchester rifles, but at the point where the attempt to land was made there was a steep embankment and they were compelled to go in single file, and were soon driven back to the boats by the steady fire from the shore. The noise of the battle spread about the borough like wildfire and thousands of men, women and children thronged to the river bank to witness the fight in progress. The Pinkerton men were determined to land and they poured volley after volley into the ranks of the strikers, many of whom were stricken down by the bullets, some of them being fatally injured and others killed outright.

As the battle progressed, the strikers took up a position behind a breast-work hastily constructed of steel rails and billets, and from this place of safe refuge were able to pick off the detectives as soon as they appeared on the deck of the boats. In the meantime, Captain Hein and Superintendent Kline, of the Pinkerton men, were disabled, and the fire was so fierce that the crew of the tow boat hastily cut loose from the barge and steamed up the river, carrying as many of the wounded as they could reach Braddock from which point they were sent down to the hospitals for treatment at Pittsburg. Seven of the force were thus cared for, while the strikers that fell wounded were carried to their home at Homestead, the dead being taken to the morgue and undertaking rooms in the town.

The strikers had secured two cannon and placed one on each side of the river. With these they kept up a constant fire upon the barge, and splintered the outside oaken timbers, but could not penetrate the steel plates. Many of the strikers were expert marksmen and sent shot after shot in the port holes doing great injury.

Hose was secured and oil spouted through it over the deck of the barge while barrel after barrel was floated down intending to ignite it and burn the barge with all the inmates.

This terrible deed was attempted several times, but the boats did not burn and then the men became infuriated and hurled dynamite bombs at the vessels with great effect. The situation of the detectives was such as to appal the stoutest heart. The men had been left cooped up in barges at the mercy of the infuriated mob. The tow boat had left them and they were so encompassed by the maddened army of strikers that no succor could reach them. Three times they run up a flag of truce but as many times it was stricken down by bullets fired by the strikers. Then it became evident that the ammunition of the besieged detectives was either exhausted or they were too much worn out to continue the fight, and for nearly two hours before the end of the struggle was reached not a shot was fired.

Through the efforts of the leading officers of the Amalgamated Association the detectives were at last allowed to surrender.

The most shocking deeds, however, were committed while the prisoners were being escorted through the street by the escort of guards appointed by the strikers. An angry mob lined the street on both sides. As the men passed by, each in charge of two deputies, the mill men and their friends kicked them and threw some of them down. The detectives begged for mercy. Some of them had pistol shot wounds in their heads, and three were seen that had their eyes shot out. Several were shot in the shoulders, arms and leg, and could scarcely limp along. Blood was running in streams down their shirt and they fairly yelled with pain.

As the procession reached the Amalgamated association building the detectives had to remove their hats and salute the flag.

After the prisoners had been removed away from the barges the rioters had their revenge. They carried oil into the holds, poured it over the bedding and furniture and then set it on fire, first securing them so that they could not float down the river and cause damage at points below. When the flames broke through the decks the cheers which rent the air were deafening and the noise could be heard miles away.

Set right—all the proper functions of womanhood. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the remedy. It regulates and promotes their action, and removes the obstructions and suppressions which cause trouble and misery. At the two critical periods in a woman's life—the change from girlhood to womanhood, and, later, the "change of life"—it is a perfectly safe and an especially valuable remedial agent, that can produce only good results. It's a powerful, invigorating tonic, and a soothing and strengthening nerve; a legitimate medicine—purely vegetable, perfectly harmless—and carefully adapted, by an experienced physician, to woman's delicate needs. For all the derangements, irregularities, and weaknesses peculiar to the sex, the "Favorite Prescription" is a remedy so certain that it can be guaranteed. If it doesn't give satisfaction in every case, the money is returned. No other medicine for women is sold in this way. No other medicine can be.

The Editor Isn't In It.

A newspaper man has no business to aspire to or seek office, anywhere. It's his business to try and get office for the other fellows. To sound the praises of the candidate and keep quiet about his failings; to whoop'er up for his man and let his man forget all about him after he gets elected; to defend his candidates against the unjust attacks of the opposition and then to see whatever favors his candidates have to bestow, go to the other fellow. It's his business to boom up his town for all it is worth month after month and to see $100 worth of job printing go out of town a month because a dollar or two can be saved by so doing. It is the business of the newspaper to give every local enterprise enthusiastic and frequent send offs and than to catch shoel because he failed to record that a prominent man has his delivery wagon newly painted. To subscribe liberally to every public, charitable and church enterprise, advertise them for nothing, pay their own way to everything and then be called prejudiced and mean spirited because a column is not devoted to that particular affair. Do you wonder there are so many cranks in the newspaper business? It is bound to make either a crank or a philosopher out of a man.—Etc.

THE DOG AND THE LAW

Dogs are animals wild by nature, and like some others, as the horse and ox, may be tamed and domesticated, but unlike them, can never be made useful. They are a nuisance to the owner and to all his neighbors and are a constant menace to the community. "Is thy servant a dog that he should do this thing?" sufficiently indicates the characteristics of this pestiferous animal. A few anecdotes and incidents in the history of the race are not sufficient to redeem it from general condemnation. The baying and howling of dogs in the night time is to many persons intolerable, and nervous and sick people and children are greatly disturbed by such discordant noises.

Various statutes have been passed restraining and endeavoring to regulate the nuisance. In 1851, Purdon, 11th Ed. page 203, Boroughs were authorized to prohibit and regulate the running at large of dogs and other animals, and in the 57 Sec. of the Act, "To authorize and direct the killing of dogs running at large contrary to the regulations of the borough."

Under the above Act, the town of Bloomsburg by Ordinance No. 1, passed May 13-1870, provided that:

1. All dogs owned or kept by any person within the town limits shall be taxed in the following manner: One dollar for the first dog and two dollars, for each and every dog above that number so owned or kept, and to be collected in like manner as taxes are recoverable by law, for the use of the town.

2. Every bitch owned by any person shall be taxed three dollars, and further, shall not at any time be permitted to run at large within the limits of the town. And in case any one is found running at large it shall be the duty of the constable to kill, or have the same killed as soon as practicable, for which service he shall receive a compensation of one dollar from the town.

Not one of the constables or policemen performs his duty in this regard or pretends to. Hundreds of the animals spoken of in the 2nd Section are running the town every day, in a more or less excitable condition, but the ordinance is as useless as the officer, and the people are obliged to put up with three nuisances rolled into one. Is this to continue? Has the public no rights as against these marauders?

In many parts of the town citizens are endeavoring to beautify their grounds—they are setting out shrubbery—they are cultivating flowers—they are removing their fences; and they are apt to find in the morning that what they so carefully planted by the dogs and destroyed, during the night. The lawn is scratched up, the flower beds rolled over and other depredations committed.

There are perhaps one thousand dogs in the town of Bloomsburg—there are two hundred and nineteen returned for taxation and five are registered under the act of 1878. What sufficient answer have the assessors to make to such a state of facts? How have they performed the duty incumbent upon them? They are to be classed with the constables in this matter and are equally remiss. Two or three thousand dollars ought to be raised by dog tax in this town, and to enforce the law would be a double relief. For if the dogs which are not returned have no owner, they should be at once killed, and the streets and sidewalks be relieved of lazy, snapping curs. For although the Act of 1889 makes all dogs personal property, yet personal property must have an owner or keeper, and if not, then no man can complain of the killing or asportation of any of the tribe. When during the August days some rabid dog invades the town and bites all the curs and pugs which attempt to hold conversation with him, perhaps the public will be aroused to a sense of the danger, unless it thinks more of its dogs than it does of its children.

In 1847, in Lycoming county, before Judge Anthony was tried the case of Kline vs. King, 6 Pa. 318.

Kline brought an action against King to recover damages for killing a dog belonging to the plaintiff. King pleaded not guilty, and specially that the dog came into his garden and enclosed premises for the purposes of plunder and depredation and was actually engaged therein, and at about the time defendant killed him. It was also alleged that the dog was vicious and ferocious, but that is not important here. Anthony instructed the jury to find for Plaintiff, and upon the verdict and judgment the defendant took a writ of error to the Supreme Court. The case was argued by Henry D. Ellis for Plaintiff in error and by James Armstrong for defendant in error. The opinion of the Court reversing the court below was delivered by Coulter J. Another branch of defense was that the dog was in the act of committing a trespass in the garden of the defendant at the time she was killed, and had committed a trespass therein a few hours before, by taking fish a few hours before, from the wall, which his wife had hung up to dry, as is usual among women. The defendant's wife had an undoubted right to hang up the fish to dry in his own enclosure convenient to the kitchen, or against the kitchen wall. And he had a right to protect and preserve that convenient use of his property. His garden was well fenced; and his property whether meat or fish, in his cellar, in his kitchen or in his yard, it was lawful for him to preserve against any man's dog, and if he could not otherwise protect it, he might kill the dog when caught on his premises in the act of destruction. In Mason vs. Keeling, Lord Raymond, 608, Chief Justice Holt says, "That if a dog breaks his neighbor's close, his owner will not be subject to an action."

And are such animals to be chartered for the annoyance and discomfort of people? But if the owner were responsible, who can detect and bear witness against the nocturnal depredations and thieves? A dog is a useful animal; but he must be taught: useful qualities and innocent habits by his master, except when defending his master's property, or his person, or that of the family, and then he may be as courageous and ferocious as he pleases. A dog is not to be kept for the purpose of destroying the property of neighbors. And if this man King, found it necessary for the preservation of his property, he was justified in killing the dog, when found in the act of destruction on his ground and within his own enclosure. This was adjudged a good plea of justification, that the dog was in the warren of defendant, pursuing conies, and that defendant killed him: Cro. J. mes, 44. So it is, if a dog runs after deer in a park. Barrington vs. Turner, 3 Lev. 28. And a man's garden here is equally protected. It is somewhat peculiarly within the law's guardianship, as being immediately connected with his domestic arrangements, and almost always, as in this case, attached to his castle or dwelling.

The question of a fence is not important and never was, as the hounds sail over it without touching it, and the curs and pugs crawl under. But, in addition, it is submitted that in the present state of the law, no fence is needed, and open grounds and gardens and kitchen walls, and culinary tables are protected. This case has never been controverted—it is the law—and every dog in town is subject to killing, for they all scratch, steal, trample, destroy, commit nuisance and trespass upon the private grounds of others.

If a wagon drives along the street, if the young ladies are out horseback riding, at every corner a half dozen many curs are barking and snapping at the horses heels, and danger to life and limb is imminent; but no one cares so long as the precious dog is safe, and his yelping and howling and barking contribute to swell the volume of musical noises of the night.

Frank seems to be right "in it" at Lafayette. He is a son of C. W. Miller Esq.

A Good upper.

Considerable expense accompanied the organizing of the vested choir at St. Paul's church. The chancel furniture and the material for the vestments, new books and all cost money. A room has been set apart for the use of the choir in the Parish House, which has been appropriately furnished, and this, too, cost money. In order to pay for these necessary things the members of the choir, assisted by the ladies of the Parish, will give a supper in the Parish House on Saturday evening, beginning at 5 o'clock. It will cost but 15 cents for a substantial supper, and ice cream and cake will be served for 15 cents extra. The new gas fixtures are expected to be in place, and the choir room will be open for inspection. Everybody is cordially invited. A photograph of the Rectory and choir in vestments has been taken, and the boys will offer copies for sale during the evening. They ask and deserve a liberal patronage.

My CATARRH was very bad. For thirty years I have been troubled with it—have tried a number of remedies without relief. A druggist advised Ely's Cream Balm. I have used only one bottle and can say I feel like a new man. I make this voluntary statement that others may know of the Balm. J. W. MATHERSON, (Lawyer), Pawtucket, R. I. 7-8-2t.

BASE BALL.

Two games of ball were played at Athletic Park on the 4th, between Hazleton and Bloomsburg nines. Hazleton won the first game by a score of 4 to 3. In the afternoon at the end of the sixth inning the score stood 8 to 7 in favor of Hazleton, when they refused to play any more, and the game was declared forfeited to Bloomsburg 9 to 0 under the rules.

What Your Great Grandmother Did.

She hatched the flax and carded the wool, and wove the linen, and spun the tow, and made the clothes for her husband and ten children. She made butter and cheese, she dipped tallow candles, to light the house at night, and she cooked all the food for her household by an open fireplace and a brick oven. Yes; and when she was forty years of age, she was already an old lady whose best days were over. Her shoulders were bent and her joints enlarged by hard work, and she wore spectacles and a cap. Her great grand daughter, with all the modern conveniences for comfort, refinement and luxury, may be as charming and attractive at forty-five as at twenty. Especially is this true if she preserves her health and beauty by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, which wards off all female ailments irregularities, cures them if they already exist, keeps the life current healthful and vigorous, and enables the women of middle age to retain the freshness of girlhood upon brow and cheeks, the light of youth in her eyes, and its elasticity in her step. Sold by all druggists.

The contract for building the addition to Fifth street school house has been awarded to B. W. Jury. The work will be commenced at once and will be completed by the time of the opening of the school. When done there will be eight rooms in the entire building, with a seating capacity of sixty in a room. The building will be heated by the Smead, Wills & Co. system of heating and ventilation. The dry closets will be in the basement. Mr. Jury the contractor has had experience in putting in the Smead, Wills & Co. system and will see that it is properly constructed.

There will be about three hundred and fifty scholars to occupy the building at the opening of the schools. The new addition will make provision for the growth of the town for about five years, when, at the rate of the increase of population in the last five years, still further improvements must be made. When that time arrives the Third street building can be remodeled at a small cost.

Children's Day at Millville.

Children's Day was very appropriately observed in this place, last Sunday June 26th. The programme chosen for the occasion was, "The League of Honor," and these were the planks proposed for its platform, "Honor Yourself," "Honor the Bible," "Honor the Church," "Honor the Sabbath," "Honor Temperance," "Honor your Parents," "Honor Truth," "Honor Knowledge," "Honor Christ." The several speakers who addressed us on these most interesting topics, gave evidence of very thorough preparation. They spoke with considerable force, and commended the most respectful attention on the part of the audience. The same can be said of the recitations and songs given by the smaller scholars.

The music consisted of anthems, solos, and a duet by the choir, and choice songs by the Sunday School. Only one wholly destitute of the musical sense, would fail to appreciate the fine manner in which these well selected songs and music were rendered. We are justly proud of this fine array of home talent, and hope to see it more fully developed in the future. The collection was something over twenty-seven dollars.

Children's Day was also observed at Mainville, on Saturday evening, June 25th. Miss Ida Johns trained the children at this place, and made it a complete success. The house was crowded, and well it might be, for it was a very joyous occasion. We enjoyed the songs and recitations, and had a good hearty laugh with the children. The collection was about eight dollars. The day was also observed at Fowlersville, on Sunday evening, June 5th. A great storm gathered up just at the time we were gathering for the service; which not only kept many away, but greatly delayed the exercises, and caused more or less embarrassment. Yet, notwithstanding all this, there was a very good congregation. "Crowning the Cross," was the programme chosen, and its instructions were beautifully carried out. The collection was about nine dollars. These amounts added to that of Lime Ridge, gives a total of $85.00

Specimen Cases.

S. H. Clifford, New Cassel, Wis., was troubled with Neuralgia and Rheumatism, his stomach was disordered, his liver was affected to an alarming degree, appetite fell away, and he was terribly reduced in flesh and strength. Three bottles of Electric Bitters cured him.

Edward Shepherd, Harrisburg, Ill., had a running sore on his leg of eight years' standing. Used three bottles of Electric Bitters and seven boxes of Bucklen's Arnica Salve, and his leg is sound and well. John Speaker, Catawba, O., had five large Fever sores on his leg, doctors said he was incurable. One bottle Electric Bitters and one box Bucklen's Arnica Salve cured him entirely. Sold at C. A. Klein's Drug store.

PURE OLD RYE AND WHEAT WHISKEY.

We formerly had bonded warehouse room sufficient to store 8,000 gallons of whiskey, which we considered a stock sufficient to meet our trade, but we found however, the demand for our whiskey such, that for us to be able to get a larger stock of old whiskey, we were compelled to increase our storage room and have just completed an ironclad bonded warehouse with a capacity sufficient to store 20,000 gallons of whiskey.

We aim to sell no whiskey less than one year old and from that on up to the oldest we have in stock except in original packages, thereby giving our patrons the benefit of the age.

What we claim over a great many other distillers: FIRST: Briarcreek being a rich fertile valley, we are able to get a superior quality of grain to manufacture our whiskey from.

SECOND: Having our distilling mill in connection with our distillery we clean all our grain for distillation over a rigid process of the smelter, thereby making it as clean as the grain that is ground into flour.

THIRD: We hand mash, double distill our whiskey and then redistill on a copper still.

FOURTH: We bottle our whiskey well thereby getting out the full oil and all impurities, which new whiskey contains.

FIFTH: We use no second-hand barrels, our whiskey is all put in new, clean, Indiana White Oak barrels which is considered the best barrel in the market.

SIXTH: It is a known fact that the hotter whiskey is kept the faster it will age, therefore, we heat our bonded warehouse with steam so the thermometer will register 70 degrees, when the temperature is at zero.

We have never distilled any corn, and do hereby guarantee all our whiskey positively pure rye or wheat and for purity and quality we defy competition, and to any person who will find any poisonous drug in our whiskey, put in by us, as it leaves our distillery or sales-room we will forfeit $600.00.

A STANDING MENACE

A Force Bill Lurks Behind the Republican Candidate.

There is one question depending on the election of the next president which, in its momentous importance and vital importance, must seem to every philosophical observer to exceed every other political question that the people are now called upon to determine.

We mean the question whether those southern states which have inherited a negro population surpassing the number of their white citizens shall, by federal law and federal military force, be subjected to the political dominations of the negroes, to negro legislatures, negro governors and negro judges in their courts, or whether they shall continue to be governed by white men as now.

Now it makes no difference who may be the president whom the Republican party elects. That party is by its nature and traditions under the necessity of enacting and executing an election law whose purpose and effect will be to put the negroes in control of several of the southern states.

On the other hand, and by the nature and necessity of the ideas involved, the success of the Democracy is death to the force bill project. Killed in this election, it can never be revived.

In this view of the contest, what conscientious Democrat can hesitate about his duty? Better vote for the liberty and the white government of the southern states rather than consent to the election of respectable Benjamin Harrison with a force bill in his pocket.

The Embodiment of Democracy.

From the instant that Mr. Cleveland was declared its nominee by the chairman of our national Democratic convention he ceased to be a private citizen and became the representative and embodiment of the success and the principles of Democracy, so it is our duty as Democrats to bury in the grave of oblivion all past differences, and with a unanimity of purpose and in unbroken ranks bear onward and to victory the banner of our party.

Cleveland Can Carry New York. It is almost certain that the candidate of the Democratic party will be elected. If there is a Democrat living who can carry the state of New York that man is Grover Cleveland.

Mr. Harrison made a characteristic speech to the friends who gathered to congratulate him on his nomination. He apologized humbly for not having offices enough to go around among all who had "deserved" them by working for his election, but insisted that he did the best he could.

Tariff Reform and Victory. The feature of the platform which will mark the fighting line of the campaign is its tariff plank. The nomination of Cleveland on this platform draws the issue sharply between the parties.

Contributions Thankfully Received. Mr. Harrison's administration has no rebuke for Mr. Wanamaker's assaults on civil service reform. Contributions to the campaign corruption fund will be thankfully received in every federal building.

A Promising Outlook. Today no true Democrat can say that a different result in Chicago would have been better for the party. It is a proud day for the Democracy of the nation. The skies are bright with promise.

A COMING GOVERNOR.

Elías Carr, Candidate of the Democrats of the Tar Heel State. Elías Carr, the gubernatorial candidate of the Democrats of North Carolina, is a practical farmer who has made money at the business. He is a well educated man, and had no idea that he would be so highly honored by his party.

ELIAS CARR.

Before the convention was Jules S. Carr, the wealthy tobacco manufacturer of Durham. Mr. Elías Carr has been president of the North Carolina Farmers' Alliance, and has held minor elective offices in his county. He will be the next governor of North Carolina without doubt.

An Impregnable Candidate.

For the third time the Democracy of the nation summons Grover Cleveland to lead it against the host of Republicanism. The third time he is summoned from private citizenship by the almost unanimous voice of his party, with the approval of hosts of independents and amid the applause of patriotic citizens generally, whose interest in good government and honest administration is not hedged in by party lines.

UNION, HARMONY, DEMOCRACY. Differences of opinion and judgment in Democratic conventions are by no means unwholesome indications, but it is hardly conceivable, in view of the importance of our success to the country and the party, that there should be anywhere among Democrats any lack of harmonious and active effort to win in the campaign which opens before us.

Stevenson a Strong Man. Adlai E. Stevenson, the nominee for vice president, is a man of education, ability and high character. Unlike his Republican competitor, Mr. Stevenson has held an elective office, having served in the lower house of congress.

Mr. Stevenson is exceedingly popular at home, as the record of his candidacies shows. He lives in a state which Senator Palmer is confident can be carried for the ticket.—New York World.

The White House Chair. Air—"His soul is marching on." We have nominated a winner for the vote in '92. We've picked a man to lead the van, and think that he'll suit you.

The tariff is the issue, and the voters understand. A candidate to mend it is the popular demand. A Democratic ruler of the anti-tariff brand. Seated in the White House chair.

We know the foe with heavy blows stands ready organized. We know that you, with courage true, have never temporized. With patriotic duty now a public trust dispensed. While filling the White House chair.

In the battle next November we will fight the people's cause. Under Grover Cleveland's banner of just and equal laws. We'll never lower his standard, nor after fighting pause. Till he's in the White House chair.

We are hunting up a relic far the fair in '90—A likeness of the foreigner who came across the sea. To pay the loss of tariff on things which should be free. With Harrison in the chair.

Another thing we ought to have, and for it we'd be praised. And sight of it would please us all and make us much amazed. A picture of the workman who had his wages raised. With Harrison in the chair.

Harrison's men will court again the tariff plutocrat. And scheme to carry their ticket through by "trying out the fat." But what the people favor is the honest Democrat. Seated in the White House chair.

With Cleveland as a leader, pure, strong and undivided. We'll go before the masses with our issues recited. And when the votes are counted the license shall be filed. Giving him the White House chair.

MEAT EATERS.

They are Sounder Physically and Less Exposed to Disease Than Others.

Many races of men live entirely on animal food and these are the most hardy and, from all I have been able to gather on the subject, the most free from diseases of all kinds. Sir Francis Head says of the Pampas Indians: "They are all horsemen or, rather, pass their lives on horseback. In spite of the climate, which is burning hot in summer and freezing in winter, these brave men, who have never yet been subdued, are entirely naked and have not even a covering for their head. They live together in tribes, each of which is governed by a cacique, but they have no fixed place of residence.

Describing the effect on himself of this diet, Sir Francis says: "After I had been riding three or four months and had lived on beef and water I found myself in a condition which I can only describe by saying that I felt no exertion could kill me, although I constantly arrived so completely exhausted that I could not speak; yet a few hours sleep upon my saddle on the ground always so completely restored me that for a week I could daily be upon my horse before sunrise and ride till two or three hours after sunset and have really tired ten or twelve horses a day. This will explain the immense distances which people in South America are said to ride, which I am confident could only be done on beef and water." The Gouachos of the Argentine Republic live entirely on roast beef and salt, scarcely ever tasting farinaceous or other vegetable food, and their sole beverage is mate or Paraguay tea, taken without sugar.

Roses.

Old as the history of the world itself is that of the queen of flowers. The ancient Greeks and Romans revelled in roses; they were used lavishly at their feasts. In the time of the republic the people had their cups of Falernian wine swimming with blooms; and the Spartan soldiers after the battle of Cirrha refused to drink any wine that was not perfumed with roses; while at the regatta of Balaia, the whole surface of the Lucrine lake was strewn with the flowers. Nero at his banquets showered rose-water upon his guests from an opening in the ceiling; and when honoring the house of a noble with his presence, the host was compelled to have his fountains playing rose-water. In the repast itself roses found place in the form of a rose pudding. The Sybarites slept on beds stuffed with rose-leaves; the tyrant Dionysius had his couch filled with them; Verus would travel with a garland on his head and round his neck, and over his litter he had a thin net with rose-leaves intertwined. Antiochus luxuriated upon a bed of blooms even in winter days and nights; and when Cleopatra entertained Antony, she had roses covering the floor to the depth, it is said, of an ell. We are told that Hellogabalus supplied so many at one of his banquets that several of his guests were suffocated in the endeavor to extricate themselves from the abundance—victims of a surfeit of sweet odors. Doubtless the immoderate use of roses by the ancients led in after days to their being relegated to their proper sphere in the garden; for although we have had the wars of the roses in our modern times, the flowers were only plucked as a symbol. First and last, the rose has been the theme of countless poems; there is no poet worthy of the name who has not consecrated it in verse.

In Real Life.

"Jim the Penman" is perhaps a more picturesque figure on the stage than in real life, but he and his kind exist, nevertheless. The story of a "gentleman burglar" recently arrested in London furnishes the material for a sensational novel. After running a career of vice in England, this fellow, who was but thirty, and handsome in face and figure, came to America and introduced himself to New York society as a lieutenant of the Royal Engineers. So well did he play his part that within a year he married the daughter of a lady of means, a pretty and accomplished girl. His mother-in-law soon pressed him to introduce her to his fashionable relatives in England. Yielding to her solicitations he returned there and took a residence in a quiet country town, where he soon became a social light, and entertained lavishly. By-and-by mysterious burglaries began in the neighborhood, but no one dreamed of suspecting the elegant and wealthy "lieutenant" of complicity in them. Ultimately he was caught, however, and accused of breaking into residences and stealing various articles. By this time the family of his unfortunate wife had been stripped of nearly every penny and left in an almost destitute condition plus the burden of his liabilities. Even after his marriage the plausible rogue kept up a correspondence with ladies with a view to marriage, and paid personal attention to others. He was indicted for burglary, and found guilty of receiving goods well knowing them to have been stolen, and was sentenced to twelve years' penal servitude. The history of his various love affairs points out the moral which girls so often forget—that a wooer should have more reliable passports to their favor than a handsome face and ingratiating manner.

What is Known About Fish.

Pliny, the great naturalist, who lived at about the time of Christ, reckoned the whole number of known species of fish at ninety-four. Linnæus, the great Swedish investigator of the eighteenth century, could classify 478, and he is known to have been the greatest ichthyologist of the age in which he lived. The progress made in that particular branch since the time of Linnæus seems all the more wonderful, for now, since the expeditions of the Challenger and others, 13,000 species show up in the catalogues of the fish specialists—St. Louis Republic.

TELEGRAPHY.

A young man or woman who desires to become a Telegraph Operator, may hear of an unusual opportunity to learn by addressing W. W. DUNLAP, 600 N. 8th, Philadelphia, Penna.

THEY HAD BULLET PROOF VESTS.

A Daring Robbery by Men Clad in Armor. Jesse James died by the pistol of Bob Ford, and now Bob has died by an equally cowardly shot. Frank James lives a retired life and the Younger boys are in the Minnesota penitentiary. Still they have their successors, and in some respects the train robbers of today have improved upon the old methods. The latest case from the far west has some features which remind us of the armored banditti of the Middle Ages and the robber castles of the Rhine.

ONE OF THE BREASTPLATES. Manufacturing works at Emeryville, or B street station, the last suburban stop on the Berkeley railway. Just as the train stopped two men "covered" the specie bearers with revolvers, grabbed the cash, jumped off and into a buggy and escaped. So much the telegraph has told, but there are additional and curious particulars. Three hours later the buggy was found and in it the overalls and other outer clothing the robbers had worn as disguises, also lemons and other materials for the rapid removal of smut from the face, for the robbers were blacked to look like coal heavers.

Mr. Gillson had recovered himself in time to rush to the car door and fire several shots. One of the robbers fell, but if hit he was not badly hurt, as he clambered into the buggy, which was driven off at a rapid rate. There was of course a fine commotion on the train—women screaming and fainting and men shouting, "Don't shoot!" The comedy of it was that as there was a big picnic party on the train, everybody thought it was only a picnic row, and no one tried to stop the men in the buggy.

The theory of the police is that the robbers drove with all haste to the first secluded spot and there cached their plunder, then stripped off their disguises, washed and sauntered into town like innocent pedestrians. So all the boys in that region are searching for the hidden plunder. Certainly took big chances, got away with $15,000 and at last accounts had not been captured.

A Second Lieutenant Anastasy. The Baroness Dillard was murdered in broad day, in her apartments in Paris, by Lieutenant Anastasy, who secured access to the house in the garb of an ordinary man of business. It was a sensational case, exciting all France, and scarcely was Anastasy guillotined when Mme. Lecossio, a superannuated servant, had a narrow escape from the same fate. A stranger entered, begged for food and received it. She was then seized by her uninvited guest, who squeezed her throat until the blood came out of her nostrils. The stranger then placed the old woman, who was in an unconscious condition, on her bed, and pilaged the room. He succeeded in getting away with a purse containing a small sum of money and a gold watch and chain. The victim was for two hours in a semi comatose condition, but eventually regaining consciousness she tottered to her window and shouted for help, which soon came. She stated to the police that she had no knowledge whatever of the would be murderer, who offered her on entering her room an envelope containing a religious picture.

Algerian Lynch Law. "Lynch law" has been practically established in Algeria, with the moral connivance of the authorities. This primitive state of things has been brought about owing to the lack of judges and gendarmes. The other day an Arab, who had assaulted and slain a little girl near Constantine, under circumstances of atrocious cruelty, was followed by some of his indignant fellow countrymen, seized by them and flung over a precipice before the police could interfere. In the space of eighteen months eight criminals—some of whom were convicted returned from Cayenne—have been shot for murder and robbery without the benefit of trial by jury.

Throwing Dice for Bibles. The curious custom of raffling for Bibles took place in the parish church of St. Ives, Hunts, England, recently. The vicar directed the proceedings, and twelve children cast dice for the six Bibles awarded. The custom dates from 1675, and is in accordance with the will of Dr. Wilde, who left £50 to provide a fund for the purpose. It was expended in the purchase of what is still called "Bible Orchard," with the rent from which the books are bought and a small sum paid to the vicar for preaching a special sermon.

An Artful Beggar. Fanny Rice, the actress, saw a poor man pick some dirty bread out of a gutter, and in pity gave him a dollar. A few minutes later she learned that her husband, Dr. Purdy, had given him some money on another street. They followed and watched the man, and saw him do the trick to perfection on another street. "This thus we are imposed on."

Like the Siamese Twins. A modern edition of the once famous Siamese twins is exciting wonder lovers in Shanghai. Two little Chinese twin brothers, five years old, are united by a fleshy ligament under the arm, and the sympathy of the twins is so perfect that both are hungry at the same time, or if one drinks wine the cheeks of the other become flushed.

"We always fry ours in Cottolene."

Our Meat, Fish, Oysters, Saratoga Chips, Eggs, Doughnuts, Vegetables, etc. Like most other people, our folks formerly used lard for all such purposes. When it disagreed with any of the family (which it often did,) we said it was "too rich." We finally tried and not one of us has had an attack of "richness" since. We further found that, unlike lard, Cottolene had no unpleasant odor when cooking, and lastly Mother's favorite and conservative cooking authority came out and gave it a big recommendation which clinched the matter. So that's why we always fry ours in Cottolene.

This is an age of marvelous things, and here is another great, useful, wealth giving wonder. Great gains will reward every industrious worker. Wherever you are, and whatever you are doing, you want to know about this wonderful work at once. Delay means much money lost to you. We have to explain here, but from now on we will make it plain to you FREE. Address: TRUE & CO., Box 400, Augusta, Maine.

WISDOM INVESTED WILL SOON DOUBLE ITSELF, and there are often as many elements of safety surrounding a good paying investment as one that pays small dividends. The earning capacity of every investment is the foundation of dividends. The Atkinson House Furnishing Co., of Maine, Organized in 1887, has paid its stockholders 9 semi-annual dividends of 5 per cent each (10 per cent a year) and is earning a handsome surplus besides. It is a buy and sell business and a safe investment for all classes. The authorized capital is $1,000,000, of which $570,000 has been paid in. To further increase the business, $80,000 of the Treasury Stock is offered until March 15th, at par, $10 per share. Price of stock will be advanced February 15th to take effect on above date. For full particulars address the company, Box 1218, Boston, Mass. or Portland, Me.

EQUESTRIAN LIVERY.

Charles E. Hower has opened a livery stable at the rear of his premises on Third street, where he keeps saddle horses to hire. He has five head, well broken, safe for ladies and children. Thus far he has been well patronized. He will accompany those who are just learning to ride, if desired. tf.

Many pleasures in life are due to good health and good looks. Manner's Double Extract Sarsaparilla will bring pleasures as it increases the appetite, relieves all disorders arising from bad blood such as Headache, Constipation, Boils and pimples which when driven out of the system brings good looks. Manner's Double Extract Sarsaparilla can be found at all drug stores also at Moyer Bro's. tf.

An elegant line of neck wear at Lowenberg's.

Fashionable Livery.

The well known horseman has opened a fashionable livery in connection with his boarding stable at the Exchange Hotel Stables, where fine turnouts can be obtained, single or double. He has well broken and safe saddle and driving horses for ladies, all at reasonable rates. Orders left at the Exchange Hotel will receive prompt attention. Drivers furnished when desired.

Some one has said that a bargain is an article sold under its real value. Some advertisers are not believers in this theory or are as economical of the truth as they are with their bargains.

But "an honest tale speeds best being plainly told." This is our purpose in offering Wall paper bargains. They are bargains because they are as we represent them, full length, full weight, bona-fide goods.

We know one instance of a bargain in wall paper which after it was on the walls lead pencil marks showed through. Whose was the bargain?

Come and see us before buying elsewhere.

The Chance in the Democratic Party.

Those who, notwithstanding their sympathy with Mr. Cleveland's views, still hesitate to support him because of the Democratic tradition, who still see in the party the old body-guard of slavery, the apologist of crimes against liberty, free speech, and a free press, and the armed force that to save human slavery would have destroyed the American Union, might as reasonably regard the Republican party as the party of the alien and sedition laws and a United States Bank. Nothing could show more clearly the change in a party whose name is unchanged than the contest and the sentiment behind it which have resulted in the nomination of Mr. Cleveland. We are far from saying that the party has not great sins and great rascals to answer for. But no honest Republican but would agree that that was true also of the Republican party. Neither of the great parties is a normal party; that is to say, they have not grown out of the issues of the times. They are both organizations which have survived the situation from which they sprang, and are adjusted to later questions.—Harpers Weekly.

 Where homes may never be sought in vain,
 And hope is the thriftiest plant that grows;
 Where man may ever his rights maintain,
 The land is as free as the wind that blows.

The plague of breaking lamp chimneys is abroad in the land.

There are two sorts of chimneys; brittle and tough. Ninety-nine in a hundred are brittle. The worst are imported from Germany. The best are Macbeth's "Pearl-top" & "Pearl-glass."

Two sorts as to workmanship; fine and coarse. The fine are Macbeth's "Pearl-top" and "Pearl-glass." The coarse are rough and out of proportion; misfits and misshapen; they do not make a good draft; they smoke.

Two sorts as to glass; transparent and gray. "Pearl-top" and "Pearl-glass" are clear, fine and tough—not tough against accident—tough against heat.

Call for "Pearl-top" or "Pearl-glass" chimneys.

A FORTUNE

Inherited by few, is pure blood, free from hereditary taint. Catarrh, consumption, rheumatism, Scrofula, and many other maladies born in the blood, can be effectually eradicated only by the use of powerful alteratives. The standard specific for this purpose—the one best known and approved—is Ayer's Sarsaparilla, the compound, concentrated extract of Honduras sarsaparilla, and other powerful alteratives.

"I consider that I have been

several hundred dollars' expense, by using Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and would strongly urge all who are troubled with lameness or rheumatic pains to give it a trial. I am sure it will do them permanent good, as it has done me."—Mrs. Joseph Wood, West Plainsburgh, N. Y.

Dr. J. W. Shields, of Smithville, Tenn., says: "I regard Ayer's Sarsaparilla as the best blood medicine on earth, and know of many wonderful cures effected by its use."

"For many years I was laid up with Scrofula, no treatment being of any benefit. At length I was recommended to give Ayer's Sarsaparilla a trial. I did so, and about a dozen bottles, was restored to perfect health—weighing 220 pounds—and am now a believer in the merits of Ayer's Sarsaparilla."—James Pety, Mine Boss, Breckenridge Coal Co. (Limited), Victoria, Ky.

By Taking

"My niece, Sarah A. Losee, was for years afflicted with scrofulous humor in the blood. About 18 months ago she began to use Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and after taking three bottles was completely cured."—E. Caffall, P. M., Losee, Utah.

What is

CASTORIA

Castoria is Dr. Samuel Pitcher's prescription for Infants and Children. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. It is a harmless substitute for Paregoric, Drops, Soothing Syrups, and Castor Oil. It is Pleasant. Its guarantee is thirty years' use by Millions of Mothers. Castoria destroys Worms and allays feverishness. Castoria prevents vomiting Sour Curd, cures Diarrhoea and Wind Colic. Castoria relieves teething troubles, cures constipation and flatulency. Castoria assimilates the food, regulates the stomach and bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. Castoria is the Children's Panacea—the Mother's Friend.

Castoria.

"Castoria is an excellent medicine for children. Mothers have repeatedly told me of its good effect upon their children."

Dr. G. C. Osceola, Lowell, Mass.

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones, by forcing opium, morphine, soothing syrup and other hurtful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves."

Dr. J. F. KINCHLOE, Conway, Ark.

The Centaur Company, 71 Murray Street, New York City.

Castoria.

"Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me."

H. A. ARCHER, M. D., 111 So. Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Our physicians in the children's department have spoken highly of their experience in their outside practice with Castoria, and although we only have among our medical supplies what is known as regular products, yet we are free to confess that the merits of Castoria has won us to look with favor upon it."

Dr. Stanley's Triumph.

New energy, new vitality, new life. The worn-out feeling; defective memory, sluggish brain, the nervousness, the impaired digestion, the impure blood, the back-ache, the dizziness, the despondency and general good-for-nothing feeling that result from worry, excessive mental work with insufficient exercise, irregular habits or over exercise of special functions CAN BE OVERCOME. Dr. Stanley's RENEWAL LINE supplies the want. While long special study was devoted to these conditions, the discovery of this great remedy was largely accidental. It WILL REBUILT FIFTY CURE. It restores to both men and women the proper enjoyment and usefulness of life. It can harm no one. It strengthens without stimulating, soothes without depressing. Benefit is quickly realized and hence it is cheap. By mail $1; six packages, enough for almost any case, $5. THE PEOPLE'S PARTY.

The People's party has not been able to secure a leader whose name would give added strength and standing to its cause. It has fallen back upon Gen. WEAVER, who polled a little more than 300,000 votes at the Greenback candidate for President in 1880.

Its protest would have been stronger with some other candidate. But its failure to secure one dose not rob the party of significance or of its importance as a factor in the present campaign.

The party is heterogeneous in composition, but it is in earnest. It represents discontent with existing condition, and while many of the remedies it proposes for the evils it points out are crudely conceived and impracticable, the evils themselves are actual and the need of a remedy is great.

The party has its origin in the conviction that existing conditions unduly favor a class at the expense of the masses, and that is true. It is a protest against Plutocracy, and such protest is justified. It makes a demand for an equal chance for all men, and that demand is just.

The party proposes many wild and impracticable schemes for the popular betterment, some of them very mischievous in character. But there is a great company of voters in Northwestern States, as recent elections have shown, who do not fear the mischief threatened and are determined in their antagonism to existing conditions. It is far from unlikely that the People's party will carry the electoral vote of several far Western States hitherto securely Republican. They will in some of those States have the help of the Democrats, who, seeing no possibility of winning themselves, will help the People's party to win, thus lessening the Republican electoral vote where they cannot add to the Democratic.

It is easily within the possibilities that this third party may thus prevent a direct election and compel an election by the House. Its importance as a factor in the contest is not, therefore, to be despised, while the processes of political education may fairly be expected to teach many of the People's party men the truth that in the triumph of Democratic principles lies the true solution of the problems they are trying to solve in other ways. Men once awakened to the wrongfulness and mischief of the policies forced upon the country by Republicanism are in a fair way to become democrats in a season or two.—World
